CME/CE Activity: Optimizing Health and Quality of Life for Women at Risk for HIV/AIDS

Part 3 of this series will kick-off on December 2, 2010 at 12:00-1:00 pm featuring Dr. Sally Hodder in the Gellene Room of the New Jersey Medical School at UMDNJ in Newark, NJ.

UMDNJ-CCOE has developed an innovative new activity entitled: Optimizing Health and Quality of Life for Women Living with HIV/AIDS Across the Lifespan. This dynamic, three-part educational series will feature an extensive, in-depth analysis of practice barriers among primary care providers who treat women in with HIV/AIDS, and how they can identify, assess, and treat this patient population. The activity will feature three experts who will guide learners through a comprehensive curriculum. Each presentation will provide appropriate approaches to enact effective behavioral change-strategies and identify high-risk behavior.

The format will include three live presentations at three strategic locations throughout New Jersey. Each live meeting will be simultaneously broadcast online to facilitate a global participation for remote audiences.

Please visit our program website at <http://ccoe.umdj.edu/HIVWomen> to get more details and register for all three events!
